That's quite a bit of bad rust you have there.

If you're set on repairing this car you should get someone who really knows what they're doing to repair that and have it sealed properly before repainting.

Just by looking at it, I'd say those parts need cut out and new metal would need to be welded in place.

There may be someone closer to you breaking a car but not too far away is a car being broke in tullyally car breakers.

It says its a 98 in the advert but they must have got it wrong.

Try and get the persons name on the phone then ask for that person next time you phone then keep annoying the same person til they do what you've asked!
What did you need them to get back to you about?

They have a 2 up there and i wanted to no what shape the quarter pannels are in an a price for then. As the fella thats to do the welding said it would be easier and better if i got quarter pannels

That amount or rust looks like a job for Retrocars: <http://www.retrocars-services.com/>
