

Mk2 with head gasket failure for sale

It's killing me to write this but I need to shift the 2. After a fateful morning at the last OTD, the suspected head gasket problem was confirmed. I don't have time, space, expertise or inclination to break the car so just want to move it on whole. The car was running fine for the entire time I had it and I put it through the NCT last week for the craic. Failed on emmissions (as expected,) an out of focus headlight and rear reverse lights.

The body is largely in good nick apart from a couple of marks on front wings.

My previous link is here:

i have no idea how much it may or may not be worth so I'll take offers on it.

Car is based in Dundalk and can be seen running etc.

I also have a brand new (in box) LUK clutch kit, a Blueprint timing belt kit and genuine Toyota passenger side toberone lense to go with it or I'll sell these separately.

Thanks

Paddy

Sorry to hear that, she is a clean car.

Sorry for kicking while your down but if she is for sale you need to put a price on it.

Site rules, sorry :(

Apologies folks. No idea what to price it at so will put €550 for the car and sell the other parts separate.

Just to clarify for those that have asked. The car has the following features:

- Electric windows and wing mirrors (all working fine)
  - Air con (very cold when on)
  - Standard 15" alloys in good nick in a grey/gunmetal colour
  - Good Bridgestone RE050s on the rear
  - Decent tyres on the front - not sure on brand (maybe Turanzas?)
  - Twin exit exhaust
  - Interior in very good condition with no rips/wear on seats whatsoever
  - New front brake pads
  - New battery

Bump. Threw it up on Donedeal this morning and have a good bit of interest (and one viewer) so hopefully it'll shift soon.
