I think Riverdance music might be good. There is one song (no idea of the name but it builds up to a crescendo toward the end).

So, if we could start off with cars starting up, pics of ignition being turned on etc, then rolling slowly, then progress through the video with scenes of the cars gradually getting faster aong with the music. Building up to that point with the mucic reacing a crescendo - and at this point, have the 2s all speeding by.

I had some ideas for the speedng by scene. Find a good sweeping corner and plant our trusty MD80s! Then catch some good footage.

Over the next few days, I am going to attach my MD80 to my front bumper to get some shots. I'll post up Riverdance music when I find it. And bumper footage when I do it :)

Port tunnel could be a good one for the noise. Have one slow driver in the outside lane with a passenger videoing out the window as we all drive past at the speed limit :blush:
