I reckon it looks pretty cool! Seems to have the power (no pun intended) to back it up also as it is reportadly equipped with a 115hp petrol motor + 102hp electric. I wonder is it 4wd?

Good find Quandry, but personally I don't think it looks sporty enough for a MR2.

I do hope that Toyota keeps the MR2 brand going, I love mid-engine sports cars.

It also looks like they may revive the Supra brand too.

Looks like one of those Teslas or Telsas or whatever they are called. A semi-electric roadster is a good idea but is probably going to be ridiculously expensive if/when it is released.
