Nice to see a new products for the mr2 being developed by such a large company.

Hopefully it's just the start and others get on board :cheer:

I thought that nearly all the aftermarket manufacturers had lost interest in the SW20 MR2 due to its age. Like you said, it's good to see new products for the MR2.

where would one order this from this side of the pond? Could be interested until you factor in shipping and possible taxes

Not sure if you can get them in Europe but it's certainly something I'd consider myself.

I've noticed a lot more love for the mr2 over the last year or so and I think it could be in part due to the popularity of honda engine swaps going on in the American scene. (If you haven't seen them..it's worth a Google!)

Like it or hate it, some of these big power honda engined mr2s seem to be focusing people's attention on the chassis and I've noticed more and more YouTubers reviewing the mr2 as a platform.

Can only be a good thing B)
