

Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2009/10/25 19:11

---

Two questions, I am thinking about getting the Rev6 headlight conversion:

Q1 - anyone know someone who has got these through an NCT test?

Q2 - anyone else interested in a set? I might try to get Rogue to commit to a group buy (they are high quality, but pretty expensive) :(

Here's some pics:

<http://www.roguesystems.co.uk/images/298/00.jpg>

<http://www.roguesystems.co.uk/images/298/01.jpg>

<http://www.roguesystems.co.uk/images/298/04.jpg>

<http://www.roguesystems.co.uk/images/298/05.jpg>

<http://www.roguesystems.co.uk/images/298/thumbs/09.jpg>

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by ricky2 - 2009/10/25 19:27

---

they are frist class a lad in newry has them. if they pass mot here they should pass your nct.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by Spidey - 2009/10/25 20:20

---

I think I asked Rogue about a GB a few years back and they weren't interested :(

But, hey - businesses are doing deals nowadays on anything and everything to get business - he may be interested now ! :)

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by Quandry - 2009/10/26 08:56

---

What do you reckon Rob, would a Spider look good with Rev6?

1. Quandry
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.

5.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by Spidey - 2009/10/26 09:45

---

Hmmmm - tempting because the rev6 lights definitely would look good. But my vision / project is for a SW20 widebody Spider with Border vented bonnet and flushmount lights.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by Harper - 2009/10/26 09:50

---

love these lights. if you can get me a price on a group buy ill let you know

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights

Posted by b4ss - 2009/10/29 10:24

---

1. Quandry
2. Tony
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.

Count me in :)

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/12 18:53

---

Any other takers? just a show of hands for a buy in the next few months. You don't need the money right now.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/12 19:08

---

You're looking at your toy list for 2010 :)

I'm still thinking about the Celica flushmounts.

Then again - if I stayed with flushmount and went low-rise, I'd love these

<http://i893.photobucket.com/albums/ac131/dr-chillin/4x6lights.jpg>

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by dshamrock2000 - 2010/01/12 19:47

---

I think they look excellent but far too pricey at the moment

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/12 19:58

---

Well if we were buying a few sets together maybe we could negotiate a better price. I'm still paying for Xmas but in a few months I could be tempted...

What lights are those Spidey? they look interesting.

And what is the story with hacking up a rare as hens teeth spider to fit Celica lights? :D I suppose if you were going to cut and shut the body for a cf widebody then it may not be sooooo bad ;)

btw, if you were getting a cf widebody would you go clear cf or painted cf? if it was clear cf you would have to also get cf matt sheeted all over the rest of the car. Would look pretty full on!

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/12 21:33

---

Quandry wrote:

Well if we were buying a few sets together maybe we could negotiate a better price. I'm still paying for Xmas but in a few months I could be tempted...

What lights are those Spidey? they look interesting.

And what is the story with hacking up a rare as hens teeth spider to fit Celica lights? :D I suppose if you were going to cut and shut the body for a cf widebody then it may not be sooooo bad ;)

btw, if you were getting a cf widebody would you go clear cf or painted cf? if it was clear cf you would have to also get cf matt sheeted all over the rest of the car. Would look pretty full on!

I think they were made by some guy from Germany a few years back. I remember seeing them on mr2oc.com and people trying to contact him to make more. They're basically a set of 4x6 headlights - you can pick up a new set for only $30 ! But we'd need RHD versions - the Probe has them. So, cheap to pick up. And you just need the rod shortened then. So, then all you'd need to do is mock up the shroud piece. This is going to be my Spring project :) Some other guy on mr2oc.com or mr2.com, I think, is currently making his own - I think he is using lights from an older model Tercel.

The CF widebody kit is going to be around £2800, I think Ben said - and FRP only £1200. So, I'd be going with FRP and panting it. Even if I had the cash to get the CF version, I think unpainted would be too much for the styling I'm after.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by mnixon - 2010/01/12 21:41

-----

I'm interested, depends on how much they're going to cost

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by slipsliderg - 2010/01/12 21:57

-----

I am not sure where I seen it but, I remember seeing photos of one of their units and it was rusted pretty badly so might be worth asking the question if that issue has been sorted out prior to buying a heap of them.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/13 10:02

-----

I would be really interested in getting a set of these next month or so. The Euro Stg rate at the moment is good, but you are still looking at ~430Euro.

They mention a HID option on the website, but no costs, i would be interested in getting the 2 at the same time, depending on costs.

<http://www.roguemotorsport.co.uk/forms/Product.aspx?ID=298>

The other option i would like to explore, is where are Rogue getting these from, they seem to be the only supplier on the planet, as twosrus.com were basically reselling Rogue to US market. Anyone seen them for sale anywhere else?

Tony

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 11:21

I think they are their own design, so they assemble the parts in to a kit. Probably the housings etc are made for them in the UK..

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/13 12:23

Scuppers that idea then so.....

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/13 15:14

The price is 1000stg for the HID rev6 lights OUCH!
T

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 15:25

Seems a little over the top???

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/13 15:34

They said they just add the Hella HID kit to them, which is approx 1000stg, i haven't a clue how much HID kids cost, any ideas Geoff?

Anyway th fog lights will look the wrong colour then too, you would need HID for them too hehe!

I would be happy enough with the quad lights, i asked her about a group buy, worth a shot.
T

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 15:53

---

I've no idea. Keep us posted on what they say about a group buy :)

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Harper - 2010/01/13 16:20

---

Thousand quid is a joke for lights.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/13 17:00

---

No dice on the group buy discount hehe, basically the only saving would be on postage. I suppose they have the market cornered on the quad lights. She also said HID's would be illegal, and that the projectors in the quad conversions are much brighter than the standard MR2 lights.... thoughts?
T

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/13 17:14

---

Quad headlights here with HID option and much cheaper !

mr2oc.com link - quad headlights

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by dshamrock2000 - 2010/01/13 18:05

---

Look ok from a distance but not great looking up close

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

---

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/13 18:20

---

I'd like to see them once he has the housing painted black and get clear lights instead of the blue tint.

I'd say that once he does that they'll look well. The only thing you might need to do then is to mould the housing onto the outer plastic trim. But thats something you could do yourself.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 19:20

---

Spidey wrote:

I'd like to see them once he has the housing painted black and get clear lights instead of the blue tint.

I'd say that once he does that they'll look well. The only thing you might need to do then is to mould the housing onto the outer plastic trim. But thats something you could do yourself.

+1, the other problem is that the light cut off would go the wrong direction and the glass would not be Euro approved :( that's the big draw of the Rogue set. If they could do Euro legal/decent ones for that price then I would be in like a shot!

I am surprised at Rogue's pricing, I am not saying I wouldn't buy them, but they're not making it an easy decision....

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by ricky2 - 2010/01/13 19:40

---

Quandry wrote:

I am surprised at Rogue's pricing, I am not saying I wouldn't buy them, but they're not making it an easy decision....

people do pay it I'd love a set but can't do that price

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/13 19:43

---

How does the cut off work ? for the US, the lamp directs the light down and for the right-hand light (from driver seat) it also shines straight head and slightly to the right ? For the left hand, its just straight ahead ?

So, the issue is basically that if we took them as is, they would blind oncoming drivers ?

But surely with 3+ lanes now, both headlights in modern cars should just beam straight ahead. If so, then what would the difference be for using them in Ireland ?

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by ricky2 - 2010/01/13 19:52

---

They need to be E marked even if we drove on the right side of the road you still won't pass MOT,NCT

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 20:06

---

Here's the pictures of the lights from the link:

<http://i303.photobucket.com/albums/nn146/garagecrw/121420091679.jpg>

<http://i303.photobucket.com/albums/nn146/garagecrw/121420091678.jpg>

If we could get the with the right cut, stamped E, no blue tint, and the metal plate powdercoated black then I will buy a set :)

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Harper - 2010/01/13 20:47

---

I think a read a post a while back were rogue said they spend a fortune on the development on these to get them approved and that is why they cost so much.

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/13 20:56

---

Well they're definitely high quality lights. The cut off and brightness is excellent. Parallel to any 'new car' so I guess we should expect that the cost reflects the quality. Still, IF the other set does the same job for a third of the price then I think they're going to win the sales no matter who spent what on what!

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by slipsliderg - 2010/01/13 21:13

---

High quality :blink: These are three year old units kept in a garage with maybe 2k miles per year done. I believe they now galvanise and powder coat them. Just bear in mind when sorting out any group buy.

Rogue and discount are polar opposite when it comes to alot of things.

<http://22817448.net/Images/rogue1.JPG>

<http://22817448.net/Images/rogue2.JPG>

<http://22817448.net/Images/rogue3.JPG>

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2010/01/15 08:50

---

dshamrock2000 wrote:

Look ok from a distance but not great looking up close

Does this really matter though? it's not like people are up inspecting the lights extra close. Most of the time they're down, or if they're up at factory height then they look like big air brakes! :laugh:

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Spidey - 2010/01/20 10:49

---

I'm getting more interested with the US kit (dependant on more pics with black surround and no blue tint).

Found some Rogue quads on a Spider ...

http://4.bp.blogspot.com/\_TL-pYZ-l-ul/SanELZjHill/AAAAAAAAAE8/NvSKND4JDO4/s1600/DSC\_0639.jpg
g

=====

Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by glenner - 2010/01/21 17:57

---

i got 6k hid lights for my car the price was 225 euro for heads and fogs together. heads are fitted at mo just waiting for weather to pick up to fit fogs :)

=====
Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by b4ss - 2010/01/21 18:00

---

sounds interesting woudl be nice to see these :)
T

---

=====
Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by glenner - 2010/01/21 18:07

---

the sooner i get a good day and off work ill do a post.

---

=====
Re:Rogue Rev6 lights group buy feeler

Posted by Quandry - 2011/09/15 08:38

---

Spidey wrote:

I'm getting more interested with the US kit (dependant on more pics with black surround and no blue tint).

Found some Rogue quads on a Spider ...

http://4.bp.blogspot.com/\_TL-pYZ-l-ul/SanELZjHill/AAAAAAAAAE8/NvSKND4JDO4/s1600/DSC\_0639.jpg

Looks great!

Just updating this post that we have a 'How Two' on assembling fitting these lights now:

<http://www.mr2.ie/mr2-forum/28-how-twos/24229-how-two-rogue-low-rise-quad-lamp-kit-mk2>

---