

Wanted Border front bumpers

Posted by Japohara - 2013/11/12 21:15

Looking for Border Front Bumpers ... For the track car

Cheap as possible ...and I will probably need more than one ..

I suppose a spare Toms back bumper and side skirts wouldn't hurt ...

No such thing as cheap Border front bumpers, even damaged ones go for big money. They are crazy money new, and then more crazy money to get shipped from Japan.

Your best bet is eBay etc., can pick up replicas for about £150 or so.

Genuine is not required ... I am only going to beat them off the barrier or make shit of them in the gravel traps ...

I plan on pushing the car as far and hard as possible so I am expecting that I wont always remain on track ...

Leesw20 has had a few of them, he might be able to point you in the direction of ebay sellers etc., that sell good fitting ones as i know he got one once that took a bit of work to fit.

I have a little repair work to do on my one so I am in no rush ...

It cant be that hard to make a mold of it and copy them off the originals ...

Original Border stuff is very rare though, 95% of the Border stuff you see on cars is knock off.

The main problem is finding someone with an original Border bumper, then trying to convince them to allow you to take a mold of it. Most with original parts wouldn't be too keen on letting someone else do that, i know i wouldn't ever let anyone take molds of my parts.

Just seen you have edited to add this.

I have TOM's rear and those BN Sports sideskirts in the for sale section for ages. Both cheap as chips.

No they don't have a harness on them ... They are Brand new Apexi ones ... Simple enough to wire in ... Comes with full wiring Diagram ...

Actually I have 2 of these ..

i tell ya mate i would take one of them off ya no problems except m having problems with my own yoke at the mo someone wired in the timer in my mr2 and its engaging the starter when i set it and turn off the key so i would only use a harness in future
