]Kinda gave up on forums but decided to join here to get help and advice as I go along, I normally drive German cars but have this Mr2 mk1 for a good few years but was in storage since bought and the old fella used it more than me

It's a red t-bar na with leather interior and no mods at all, need to get a few things sorted on it before I take it out again

Hi, live in Leixlip but car is currently in storage in Cork where she has resided most of her life, had it in Leixlip last year for a few months but it needs the rear calipers sorted so until I get round to that it will be parked up, I have my other summer car (a German ) to be pampered this year so doubt the mr2 will be out

I'm only out the road from ya. The only other mk1 around here is TurboD's, he has a lovely red one but its off the road for a while too.

Thanks, a few things to do to the M3 this year but priority is a carbon airbox and the ecu remap as well, I loved the sound of the mr2 as well around town as well.

:yes: cheers all and much appreciate the welcome, I have a few biits to sort out like the rear calipers and the guides for the t-bar roof which are broken and have to get that sorted as its not holding the roof tight enough and when parked in a thunder storm the roof leaked, so when parked out doors now I leave a cover on it

Sweet M3 Boxy :)

Here's a link to t-bar guides, I got these for a previous one and they worked a treat. They are off centre to the pull the glass panel tighter into the T-Bar seal

Won't have her out for 2015 as have work to do on the other car and need to get a few jobs sorted on the MR2 as well so its staying under wraps this year. Have a alot of money going into M3 and a road trip to Uk with mates so funds limited but it will be out in 2016 for definite
