

water/meth or nitrous???

Have a dilemma, was going to fit a full standalone ecu but have decided to put that on the back burner for now and fit either meth injection or nos.

Anyone done this to theres and which gives the best results?

Hey Mickybo take a read through the 3sgte power primer - very useful article on how to get big power from the 3sgte: <http://www.mrcontrols.com/primers/power.htm>

ATS Racing has dynod 700whp with no water/meth btw.

Read that it's for the rev1/2, I have a rev3 with upgraded smic, apexi intake, full turbo back Bee-R exhaust with decat running 1.2bar boost. Currently running 13.4sec 1/4 mile at 104mph and 1.9sec 60ft so was interested in nos for that extra mid range punch. car is a great driver otherwise but looking more for the drags

Are you still running the factory turbo? changing to a bigger/better turbo makes a lot of difference.

That aside, you could give TDP.ie a call, they know what it takes to make big power.

btw, the difference between rev1/2 and 3+ is not a lot once you go over 300hp you need the same mods.

If its just for drag racing go Nitrous, it only gets put in at full throttle anyway so not really for a road car. Its amazing, easiest big power upgrade you will get.

I have a Wizards of Nos wet kit that I would maybe sell, 11lb bottle (black) with fixing bracket, bottle heater controlled by a pressure switch, all pipes solenoids and switches but you might need to make up a bracket for your throttle body switch to fit. It has a 100 shot nos jet so a real big hit out of it and the bottle is half full.

Would need £350 for it but, if it doesn't go for that it will go back in the car.
