

Garage Flooring

Posted by Bommie - 2019/03/10 19:37

Hi all, just wondering for those of you who have garages, or experience with them, have you any suggestions for flooring type to use?

I'm building it specifically for the mr2 and it will be used for typical maintenance related work so will involve needing to stand up to use of floor jacks, axle stands etc

I thought epoxy would be the answer but the more I look into it the more complaints people seem to have!

Are those rubber tiles any good? How do they stand up to jacking cars up?

Hopefully someone here can advise :S

=====

Re: Garage Flooring

Posted by Marty J - 2019/03/11 22:55

What kind of complaints did you find?

A quick google and I found out that moisture is a problem, but you can do a test for that.

=====

Re: Garage Flooring

Posted by Bommie - 2019/03/12 00:24

Hey Marty, a lot of issues with durability of the finish not being what people had hoped for. I'm sure a lot of it is to do with the product being applied incorrectly.

I just don't think it would suit for my garage as it's a steel type

=====